

Internship Opportunity with the National HCP Coalition

Updating the National Habitat Conservation Plan Database

Spring 2022

Overview:

The National HCP Coalition (NHCCP), is looking for student assistance in the form of a Spring Semester internship to assist with populating and updating a nation-wide database of habitat conservation plans. The NHCCP is a collective group of volunteers from various stakeholders, including environmental groups, consultants, landowners, and state and federal agencies. For more information regarding the NHCCP, please view the following website: <https://www.nhccpcoalition.org>.

This internship is being offered as potential course credit and/or volunteer hours. Primary duties will include research, communication, and compiling efforts for a national online database of habitat conservation plans. No experience with environmental research is necessary, and start and end times are flexible.

Benefits:

- Gain experience with environmental work, including HCP processes, CEQA, and NEPA regulations
- Develop and improve skills in research, communication, and analysis
- Gain real-world experience and network with experts in the field of conservation and other sciences
- Work remotely with flexible hours to accommodate school schedules
- Obtain course credit, internship experience, and/or volunteer hours
